

Women in Science Forum

for Junior Faculty, Postdocs, and Graduate Students

Wednesday, August 29
1:00-2:15 p.m. (lunch provided)
UHS 130

Guest speaker: Elaine Fuchs, Ph.D.

Rebecca C. Lancefield Professor
Laboratory of Mammalian Cell Biology and Development
The Rockefeller University

In addition to being an Investigator with the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, a member of the National Academy of Sciences, and the recipient of numerous awards for her pioneering research on skin stem cells, Dr. Fuchs is also well known for her support of women in science.

This forum will be an excellent opportunity for you to hear about Dr. Fuchs' experiences as a woman in science, to ask questions and share your own thoughts, and to interact with your peers from the Colleges of Medicine and Arts and Sciences. Please join us!

Seating is limited

RSVP to Ann Morris in the Department of Biology to reserve a spot
ann.morris@uky.edu

Sponsored by:
The College of Arts and Sciences
The Department of Biology
The Graduate Center for Toxicology